1964 SHIELD

Published by the Journalism Students of Highland High School.

Rays of sunshine stream through the skylights, lending more than sufficient light to the pastel walls and shiny tiled floors. It is neat, clean, bright, and new—perhaps as warm and stimulating an atmosphere as any empty building can have. There is a line of advanced study to meet a serious interest and an avid desire. Highly qualified teachers are willing to satisfy any young, inquisitive mind. Many organizations are established and many more are waiting to be founded. There is also a gym—maybe not the biggest, but big enough for a basketball game.

As another day begins, that sunshine never reaches the floor, but falls on a gay, young mass of humanity. An advanced curriculum finds a serious interest and avid desire. Willing teachers discover those young, inquisitive minds. Organizations find the interest and work they need. The gym opens its doors to an overflow crowd. A team finds a bleacher-full of fans to work for. Each morning students open the doors of a modern, new building and all the possibilities it contains. Each morning, with spirit and interest hand-in-hand, these students start to work in making this set of potentialities a human reality. INDEED, HIGHLAND HIGH ONLY FUNCTIONS THROUGH THE SPIRIT OF HER STUDENTS.

Building, Facilities Used Year Around for Regular Sessions,

HIGHLAND HIGH SCHOOL became solely a senior high school this year. This occurred with the completion of the junior high.

SCANNING THE FINISHED product, Diane Dickinson, Editor-in-Chief of the summer school TROJANAL, walks the usually bustling halls of summer school after the noon dismissal.

CHANGING FLAT TIRES is an art. Shown practicing are driver's training students Chris Burroughs, Gloria Brisenio and Pam Benda.

Summer School, Adult Leisure

"We're proud of our school!"—Highland Senior High School. Please note the "Senior." Gone are the eighth-graders and freshmen; gone with them is a good deal of crowding and shov. Still, all our facilities are being used to their fullest capacities. During the day students rush back and forth to classes and after school our building is the scene of meetings, conferences and team practices. In the evening one might find a basketball game, P.T.A., a science seminar, or any one of a number of student activities.

When June comes, we don't just board up the building and go home! There are summer school courses for those interested in making up last year's subjects or in getting ahead on next year's. When summer school ends, the football team and the marching band begin to practice.

Always moving, always changing, young, alive—a high school is a wonderful place and the home for many worthwhile activities. This is what Highland students are trying to get across when they say, "We're proud of our school!"

IN ANY SEASON, any weather, the center court at Highland High presents a tranquil scene, emphasizing the beauty of our modern school.

LEARNING A FOREIGN language is learning about culture and people as well. Spanish students study the speech, history and feelings of a people through song.

Language Arts Stressed Communication for Modern Need

Whether reading The Return of the Native, giving an impromptu speech, planning a debate, or memorizing a German assignment, a student is dealing with an important part of his education. Of course, writing a sonnet or short story is not the easiest thing in the world, but the satisfaction, pride, and enjoyment of seeing one's own work makes up for the hard work. Novels, compositions and grammar are all a part of the English curriculum.

With the world constantly "shrinking," the need for knowledge of a foreign language is becoming greater. German, Latin, Spanish, and French are offered to help fulfill this need.

Students realize these classes are valuable and necessary ones that will help them when they are out in the world.

CREATING A PENSIVE mood during a dramatic reading, Mr. E. Colin Black, speech and drama instructor, demonstrates the art of audience captivation, an essential quality for a good speaker.

JIM LEACH PUTS to use the rules of speaking and succeeds in reaching his speech class audience with a touch of humor and a show of obvious enjoyment in talking to his fellow classmates.

MRS. HELENA KARR, English teacher, strives to instill in students a sincere understanding of the human elements through literature.

Science and Math Courses Strived to Ready Students for Modern, Technical World by Instilling Basic Principles, Advanced Study

SHOWING SOME DOUBT at the reassuring words of her physics instructor, Mr. Lee Farley, and the urges of her classmates, Karen Abblett hesitates a little to play the guinea pig in this particular experiment dealing with static electricity.

PERFORMING AN UPCOMING lab experiment, Mr. Ron Surdzial, chemistry teacher, demonstrates laboratory procedure.

Me? You mean I have to cut up that rat? Oh no, not me! Five minutes later the whole class is involved in dissection and Advanced Biology moves on once more. This is typical of many advanced courses in science and math. Most students appreciate the chance to experiment with such college level courses.

Highland students have ample opportunity for such experimentation. H.H.S., with six years of academic math, is one of the few high schools in the country to offer both Calculus and Probabilities and Statistics.

In the chemistry department students find that laboratory work plus daily lecture material facilitate their learning of the basic principles of the field. Just down the hall the biology classes learned about both plants and animals through lectures and labs. In physics this year students studied a new, more general course in addition to the regular physics curriculum.

Though the science and math departments have grown continually for the past seven years, even better courses and facilities are being planned.

CALCULATION AND CONCENTRATION prove to senior Dee Dilts to be a necessity in any phase of mathematics, Senior Math included.

Industrial Arts Courses Train Boys for Future Vocations

SPARKS FLY, METAL sootens, and experience is gained as John Tuskan welds part of his project. Metal shop gives all students the opportunity to work and to obtain the confidence necessary for shop.

BUSILY FINISHING HIS PROJECT Rick Coppage uses safety taught to be important in using shop equipment. Courses instruct boys in more than just the fundamental construction procedures.

Creative young men are given the opportunity to develop their skills in carpentry and drafting through the courses offered by the Industrial Arts Department. This department had it's beginning when the high school opened, offering seventh and eighth grade shop. As the school continued to grow, more courses were added, including drafting and advanced classes of wood and metal shops.

Students of wood shop are taught the correct use of tools, as well as precision work in carpentry. Learning and experimenting with the methods of metal fabrication is one of the purposes of the Metal Shop courses. The advanced courses in drafting offer an opportunity to study house construction. All are vital links in the curriculum.

Homemaking and Child Care Prepare Girls for Future Roles

For the future homemaker, the world of home economics offers countless opportunities in learning the fine arts of housekeeping, from first year cooking to sewing problems.

With the help of well-trained teachers and modern equipment and teaching methods, students learn home management, child care, and home nursing, as well as cooking and sewing. Girls acquire the skills of planning and managing a home, caring for children, and treating the injured and the sick.

Working hard over sewing machines and stoves, creating stylish fashions and delicious meals, the girls realize that the thrills learned here will be utilized in the future.

11

MISS RACHAEL RAMSEY, home economics instructor, gives a helping hand to Pat Markward and Sandy Parkis as they strive to become adept in the culinary arts.

Students Contributed to Efficient School Operation by Taking

What is a high school? It is defined as a "building where a group of teachers and pupils meet." But to those teachers and pupils, it is much more. It is people, lockers, movies, fight songs, activities, economics class, pride, and responsibility.

Besides getting from their school, pupils give. They aren't content to receive all the time; they want to accept responsibilities in order to make their school even better.

For the first time, monitors were organized under Mr. Ron Johnson, social studies instructor. They were instructed to check all passes and issue court notices when necessary.

Projectionists were available every period to assist teachers in showing movies. Office aids helped administrators in both the main and guidance offices. Student librarians and teachers learned and helped at the same time.

But pupils gave in other ways. They gave in hard work to the main job of a school education. Study and physical fitness went hand in hand to better both the mind and body.

PARTICIPATING IN ATHLETICS at the gym class level, as well as the intrascholastic level, can be an enlightening experience, and lots of fun, too, but it sure does build up a thirst.

Positions of Leadership While Working Towards Academic Goals

RECORDING STATISTICS AND keeping records, office aid, Joyce Robbins, helps with the large amount of office paper work.

MONITOR TERRY HARRIS signs a pass. Monitors, under the supervision of Mr. Ronald Johnson, also check for set lockers.

ENGROSSED IN THEIR TYPING Denny Clark and Martha Elliott repeat the never ending routine of practice and more practice.

Commercial Courses Exist to Increase Dexterity in Business; Advanced Shorthand, Typing Offered for Future Secretaries

SILHOUETTED IN THE DOORWAY Mr. Merlin Clinkenbeard silently watches his bookkeeping class complete one of their many assignments that will put them one step nearer their goal.

Whether a typist, stenographer, accountant or any other of the many jobs opened to members of the business world, a good background study and a lot of work serve as the basis for all.

The general business course at Highland High is geared to help future members of the business world develop an adequate preparation for their coming work. Such courses as first year typing and shorthand and also a one year study in General Business are offered to students, as well as advanced courses.

Students with the interest and determination to follow the business study at Highland can be fairly well assured of adequate training to go on to a new job or higher education after graduation.

DICTATION CAN BE FUN as Miss Nancy Carty reads an excerpt from the lesson to her shorthand class.

Social Studies Department Presented Realistic Views of World

Encompassing the actions of man from the dawning of civilization until the present year provides a purpose for the Social Studies Department. In this field, Highland High School has kept high standards in offering the latest in curriculum and competent teachers.

Economics, Government, Psychology, Sociology, United States History, Vocational Problems, World Geography, World History and World Problems are courses offered in the department. To qualify for the World Government course, one must be either a junior or senior. An overall "B" average or instructor approval is another requirement.

A wide variety of activities vary with the individual instructor. For example, the classes in American Government attended meetings of the Highland Town Board. The ever-changing times create an atmosphere for learning. The Social Studies Department aids students in understanding people and the world in which they live.

STUDYING THE CULTURE, geography, and people of foreign countries, as well as our own, is done in social studies classes. Map drawing is a helpful aid, particularly in geography classes.

LEARNING ABOUT OUR national government is a task that Mr. Ron Johnson's government classes find eased by audio-visual aids.

Situations, Past and Present

POSTER BOARD PROJECTS enable the students to learn while in the process of completing his project. Poster boards are required as supplementary work in many social study classes.

TAKING OVER PSYCHOLOGY classes as a student teacher is Mrs. Nellie Vaughan. She is one of many student teachers who found Highland High School to be excellent for cadet teaching.

Pride, Work and Enthusiasm Created Spirit in Student Life

Perhaps, if one listens hard enough the excitement of it all can be heard still ringing throughout the gym. And with these positive sounds of victory might come memories of tournaments, victory hoops, boosters and cheerleaders.

Still, there is another type of spirit—quieter, more personal, harder to explain. It comes when we stand in our gym listening to the “Star Spangled Banner”; write for our paper; work for our play, concert or club. It comes when students fashion Homecoming floats, feast at the Scholarship Banquet and elect a Prom Queen and King. It is equal parts of pride, hard work and enthusiasm—it is spirit.

EXPRESSING THEIR SENTIMENTS at the pep rally before the awaited football game with Griffith are Lannie Wellis and Rich Spickard. The co-captains spoke words of hope and encouragement.

TENSE BOOSTERS BREAK the anxious silence of a crucial moment with the clamorous applause of success and encouragement.

CHARGING THROUGH THE victory hoop, John Ruskin, guard, leads the team to another win.

PETE TUMBAS PLEDGES the efforts of his fellow cagemen to boosters in return for their wholehearted support.

Personalities, Activities, and

YOUTHFUL SPIRIT IS reflected in an underclassman's face.

TYPICAL TEENAGE FADS influence the tastes of many. Predominant fads include charm bracelets, mohair sweaters, and angora-wrapped rings.

Studies Furnish Variety, Challenge for Students Daily Routine

Studies, games, fashions, assignments, projects, lunches, meetings, dances, fads, and dates are all significant aspects of school life. Reflected in each of these activities are the emotions, attitudes, and feelings of each individual, as well as the whole student body. Changing rules or activities usually have a definite effect on students. With the modification of the lunch schedule arose an aura of discontent. Students, however, learned to conserve their time and thus adjusted to the shortened lunch period. Other adjustments were also made—eating popcorn after school was quickly accepted by the student body. Mohair sweaters, charm bracelets, loafers, and knee sox were just some of the popular fashions seen during and after school. Through all the activities students succeeded in learning their lessons, as well as having loads of fun.

THE BEATLE MANIA that swept through schools all over the country did not by any means bypass Highland's senior circle.

Educational Institutes and Foreign Exchange

GATHERING AROUND THE horseshoe table that plays such a big part in all their work are SHEILD editors Doug Bateman, Head Photographer; Pam Heim, Copy Editor; Sandi Barney, Editor-in-Chief; Martha Boyd, Business Manager; second and first semester TROJANAL Editors-in-Chief, Janet Gaston and Mel MacKenzie; and Jennifer Smith, SHIELD Photography Editor who attended institutes this summer.

ERLAND VON SNEIDERN, exchange student, participates in an Economics I class. Besides this class, Erland attends other classes including English and Advanced Algebra.

COMPARING SOUVENIRS AND experience gained from their summer visit to a state university are Boys' and Girls' State Delegates Jennifer Smith, Bill VanderHaar, Pam Heim, Bob Sacha, Pat Kelley, and Dye Dilts. Each year the high school juniors attending the institute set up mock state governments to study the structure and operation of the Indiana state government.

Programs Provided Opportunity for Travel New Experiences

NEW IDEAS GAINED at Student Council Institute will be beneficial in running the Highland High Council. Bob Sacha, James Gaston, delegates to Indiana University Student Council Workshop, and Mr. J. Garretson make plans to put these new ideas into action.

ADMIRING TWO NATIVE products of South American culture, Erlend von Sneidern of Ecuador and two of Highland High's previous exchange students, Herb Marsh and Carol Spiegel, get together to chat about their personal experiences as foreign exchange students.

Extra curricular activities are beginning to assume a new roll in the eyes of the student body and the faculty at Highland High.

Institutes, such as the Journalism and Student Council Institutes, seem to be the highlight of the year, serving as stepping stones to more advanced interests.

The cultural exchange which comes about through foreign student exchange is another educational extra curricular activity in which students participate.

Though only a few students can directly take part in such a program, the cultural and linguistic knowledge which South American students bring to Highland High and, similarly, the American culture which our students take abroad with them make such exchanges well worthwhile.

In the case of both institutes and exchange programs, the organization, as well as the students, profit from the knowledge gained.

Old Traditions Prevail, New Changes Help to Distinguish

24

UNDER CRITICAL SCRUTINY by the junior class' Tweety Bird, Margie Haburay adds final touches to the '65 float. With an early Homecoming, work on floats started before the school year.

Drums, fans, floats, and a queen—these are the things we learn to expect and find, and, just like every other school in the country, this was Highland High's 1963 Homecoming. Even Friday the 13th did not dare to upset tradition. Again the Trojans came through with a win on that special day.

Industrious hands, anxious to create and construct—a familiar sight, but working with ideas as fresh and new as ever before. Bright, intent expressions, almost stereotyped from years past, and yet each harboring such a diversity of feelings and memories as there are personalities in such a crowd.

A radiant, smiling queen—nothing so very strange, and yet the face and personality of Janet Gaston so different from those reigning before her. Floats, floats and more floats, from every class and club, paving the way for another change. The senior's "Last Chance" broke tradition as it rode to the first place honors in the parade. This was Homecoming 1963—so much the same, and yet so very individually ours.

CLASS OF '64 broke tradition with their victorious Homecoming float ridden by seniors Sandi Barney, Pat Primich, Mel MacKenzie, and Karan Abblett.

'63 Homecoming from Others

CLIMAXING HOMECOMING FESTIVITIES was the spectacular bonfire. Materials gathered for the fire plus the floats were set ablaze at the time of the opening kick-off.

ANXIOUSLY WORKING ON the French Club float to meet the deadline for the homecoming parade is senior Rosemary Rich.

Queen Candidates Awaited Crowning with Anticipation; Trojan Festivities Climaxed by Fifth Homecoming Victory

STILL GRASPING THE Trojan pigskin, quarterback, Mike Planeri, goes down under his Dyer aggressors, after gaining yardage which proved important in the Highland High Homecoming victory.

Homecoming—a word students muster to like Minutemen to a shot, is an event that calls for all the pride and spirit they can find, backed by the equal eagerness to create and the work to make their ideas a reality. From just such attitudes as these arise the prize-winning floats and the first, second, and third place trophies. From these attitudes comes the intense desire to win and shout their victory at the top of their voices.

Similarly, Janet Gaston felt the excitement and spirit of the occasion upon receiving a sparkling crown and a proud title. Surely the Trojans struck the attitude as well, beating Dyer Central 13 to 7. This is the spirit of Homecoming that activates minds, hearts, and bodies, as well as voices.

BUILT-UP EMOTIONS release themselves in tears of joy, disbelief and relief as Janet Gaston learns that she is the 1963 Homecoming queen. Larry Carlson, Janet's driver, shared her happiness.

HOMECOMING QUEEN CANDIDATES Maureen Rotz, Cindy Smith, Becky Hunter, Nancy Worcester, Janet Gaston, and Bobbi Brannen pose in anticipation of the game with Dyer. These six seniors vied for the title of 1963 Homecoming Queen.

WITH MOTHERLY DISGUST, Mrs. Antrobus, portrayed by Pam Ross, vents her anger on her son Henry, played by Jack Leach. Alexa Smith as Gladys, the Antrobus' daughter, looks on the scene with sisterly disconcert about the whole thing.

28

Students Combine Talent and Team Effort to Present Annual

HIGH-PRINCIPLED AND STUBBORN, Mr. Antrobus, played by senior Pete Tumbas, gives his family a stern lecture about their weak, yielding attitude toward the hardships of life.

LISTENING WITH APPROVAL, Dinosaur Sandi Barney hears the singing telegram which Pat Lowery brings the Antrobuses.

Drama, Musical Productions

The curtain falls; a burst of applause. For the audience this is their way of expressing their satisfaction and approval of the student production which has just been presented to them. To the cast, the stage crew, and the many committee members, this is the perfect ending to their own production. The final product represents the long hours and hard, exhausting work put forth by ambitious and talented students. Each year the main endeavor of the Drama Club and the music department are the play and the operetta, respectively. Talented dramatists, vocalists and musicians spend time and effort to produce and present these two examples of student teamwork. Without the help of each and every one involved the presentation could easily become a "flop." This year the Drama Club presented Thornton Wilder's "The Skin of Our Teeth." The music department presented "Brigadoon," by Lerner and Loewe, as their operetta.

TRANSPOSING INTO THE character of Sabina, the maid, Diane Dickenson dons the appropriate costume and the "Isn't that ridiculous?" attitude necessary to give a realistic portrayal, even during a dress rehearsal.

"Springtime Sayonara" Created As Evening of Enchantment

TENSION MOUNTED AS Cindy Smith, Pat Primich, Mylane Miller, Bobbi Brannen, Laura Cuculic, and Judy Miklos made flowers.

JANICE TATUM PUT the finishing touches on the huge Buddha who greeted each couple as they passed through the bamboo curtain.

May 17, 1963—Tired, and battered juniors in rumpled sweatshirts and wrinkled bermudas put the finishing touches on their prom, "Springtime Sayonara." Rock gardens, buddas and pagoda transformed our commonplace gym into a green and gold Japanese garden. With the revolutionary idea that proms should be fun as well as pretty, the Class of '64 provided a really rockin'-out band—Arnie and His Soul Brothers. Shortly after the Grand March the action moved from the high school to an after-prom party at the Sherwood Club. The junior class, still following a "proms can be fun" idea, arranged for a midnight supper, hypnotist and another band. A few hours later our prom was over. Still, prom is never really over; the memory always lingers on.

JOE CEPERICH, PAM HEIM, and Jennifer Smith hung decorations, anticipating a prom the Class of '64 could be proud of.

THE ENCHANTING BEAUTY of a Japanese garden provided an Oriental atmosphere at the 1963 junior prom, "Springtime Sayonara."

RADIANTLY HAPPY, MEL MacKenzie is crowned '63 Prom Queen by Denny Howard, 1962 Prom King, whose reign ended that evening

ARNIE AND HIS SOUL Brothers, professional instrumental group, provided music from the elaborately decorated Japanese pagoda for dancing or listening for couples attending the 1963 Prom.

BEST FOOT FORWARD, the Class of '63 prepares to enter a new life. The class motto serves as a guide for all graduates. Highlighting the commencement ceremonies was Dr. D. White, Dean of Admissions at Purdue University.

COMMENCEMENT DAY, 1963, finds James Larrabee addressing the commencement ceremonies as co-valetictorian of the class.

FROM SENIOR TO GRADUATE in the instant of a handshake. One goal has been achieved; now others must be set and attained.

Eagerly Expected Milestone

Graduation, that milestone in the life of a teenager, is slow in coming—until the senior year. The seniors began their last year only to find it rushing with incomprehensible swiftness. Senior pictures gave the first inkling that graduation was approaching. Christmas tourney and sectionals marked with finality the last games the seniors would witness as students. Fitting for caps and gowns was the beginning of the year's end. Then graduation itself became a reality. Tearful memories intermingled with the exciting anticipation of the future as the seniors assembled for the last time. In a span of minutes, the Class of '63 had been transformed from students to alumni.

Of Graduation Long Awaited by Seniors, Too Soon to Come

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATION ceremonies will always be remembered by Roger Moore. As co-valedictorian of the Class of '63 Roger had the honor of addressing his fellow graduates.

Athletics

Alert Body and Mind,

Develop Acuteness

In the hearts of athletes, in the voices of the Booster Block, in the countenance of the coach, is found an indomitable pride in our school. The school in turn may well boast of the sons and daughters who wear the blue and gold. School spirit reigns high as "win or lose, we'll cheer you."

True, skill and ability must be found in an athlete. But more important than these visible characteristics are the ones to be found in the heart and mind of the athlete. Spirit, desire to win, a sense of fairness and sportsmanship also are a part of the real athlete. It makes a difference whether the game is won or not because the victory is an admission of superior skill. To the well-rounded athlete, however, the manner in which he wins or loses is even more significant. How the particular contest is won also makes a difference to others. It is a well-satisfied coach who can say he is truly proud of the way his boys played. Victory or loss, team supporters want to be able to say, "We're proud of our team."

New Grandeur with All-State Honorable Mention Rating

Football talk began in mid-August, when many eager Trojans donned equipment to begin the most rugged high school contact sport. It was then that the sweating, aching, working commenced, but it paid off. The spirit and fighting eagerness of the Trojan eleven shone throughout the season.

Dominated primarily by returning senior lettermen, the fighting Men of Troy faced probably the roughest schedule in their high school history. The fight was present and, win or lose, they were backed by the whole school. Head coach and his assistants displayed everything within their power to enable the team to enjoy a successful season. The coaches led their hard-working team through vigorous daily practices, criticizing and helping wherever and whenever possible. While the team played as a group throughout the year, there were two outstanding players in the eyes of state press agents. Fullback Carl Topor and tackle Rick Spickard, graduating senior lettermen, both received All-State honorable mention as polled by the United Press International. Both boys played varsity football for three consecutive years and are good college prospects. Led by Topor and Spickard, the 1963 Trojan gridders battled against tough opposition to a season lacking in some respects, but highly successful in others.

TRYING TO SHAKE off two tacklers, senior quarterback Mike Planert (25) gains precious yardage for the Trojans.

CATCHING THEIR BREATH, Tom Burke (62) and John Gaston (31) anxiously watch the action on the field.

Proving to have a strong defensive unit, the '63 Trojans lacked the scoring punch that could have changed the outcome of several games.

The gridiron season opened with the annual Football-O-Rama as the Gavit Gladiators downed the Trojans 14-0. The Trojans showed more promise as they tied Emerson in a hard-fought game. Traditionally the Trojans won their homecoming game by defeating Dyer Central's Indians as Carl Topor made the lone score. The next two games showed the Trojan spirit as they beat Gary Edison, 14-12, and Clark, 13-7. As the season progressed the hard working Trojans found themselves at the mercy of Merrillville, Crown Point, and Chesterton, going down by the scores of 20-13, 7-6, 12-0, respectively. Clearly the best team effort of the season was against Lowell. Highlights were Ray Gran's interception and touchdown and Bob Marlowe's interception. In the much anticipated game between rivals Griffith and Highland, the Trojans were dealt a crushing 41-6 defeat. In the newly inaugurated Calumet Conference Playoff games, Highland's Trojans were pitted against East Gary's Eagles to vie for seventh and eighth places. East Gary was victorious in this the season finale.

Harriers Capture Second Place in Calumet Conference Meet

With the leadership of junior Greg Roderick the Trojan harriers finished with their best season. Their overall record was 24 wins with 15 losses. Roderick broke his self-owned school record for the event with a time of 9:41 for the two-mile run.

The nucleus of the team centered around Greg Roderick, Jack Richerson, Robin Blixt, Chuck Phillips, Chuck Whitaker, Jack Gilsinger, and Danny Norris. Calisthenics and much running occupied the after-school time of these boys, who were carefully coached by Mr. Merlin Clinkenbeard. Coach Clinkenbeard's runners got well earned revenge on five conference teams by placing second in the Calumet Conference meet. They also placed eleventh in the twenty-four team Conference meet. For the second time in two years, Roderick was Highland's representative on the All-Conference Cross Country team. Roderick also represented Highland at the LaPorte regional, missing state contention by one place.

Highland Compiled 14-7 Record as '64 Season Concluded; Trojans Captured Trophy in Whiting Holiday Tournament

VICTORIOUS TROJANS PROUDLY DISPLAY the trophy captured at the Whiting Holiday Tournament.

Highland's Trojans of '64 ripped off four successive victories over Hammond Tech, Hammond Gavit, Merrillville, and Gary Wirt. After losing a heartbreaker to Calumet (65—63), the team downed Rensselaer, but then was beaten by Lebanon.

The Trojans bounced back in the Whiting Holiday Tourney defeating the hosts as Harry Withrow set a school record, scoring 35 points. The team went on to tip Bishop Noll in overtime to capture the trophy.

Highland suffered another heartbreaking loss to Gary Edison (65—63). The team again strung four victories together over Culver Military Academy, Griffith, Portage, and Chesterton before losing to Hammond Morton. Rounding out the season, Highland won at Lowell, fell to Crown Point and East Gary, then finished with victories over Dyer Central and Thorton Fractional North.

The young Trojans edged Gavit in one of their first games of the season, (42-41). Not being able to get started they dropped the next one to Merrillville, (52-27), then came back against Gary Wirt, (34-24). An inspired Calumet five beat the Trojans, (46-34). Then the JV boys journeyed to Rensselaer, holding them to one point in the overtime and winning (43-39). The next game was lost to Lebanon, (52-30). The boys bounced back to win their next three games, topping Gary Edison, (52-47), Culver Military, (35-33), and archrival Griffith, (41-39).

In the Invitational tournament at Crown Point, the Trojans lost to Merrillville, (59-44), and Crown Point (45-37). Coming back, they beat Portage in an overtime contest, (58-48). The Trojans lost the next two games, to Chesterton, (43-41), and to Morton, (44-42). Bouncing back from those defeats, the B-team beat Lowell, (29-22), and East Gary, (47-42). Playing Crown Point again they lost (37-29). The Dyer game was lost, (39-30). The season was finished with a win over T.F. North, (42-38).

The high point man for the season was junior center Rex Burton with 125 points. Second was sophomore Frank Katona with 110 points.

In high school, team sports dominated the athletic scene. Wrestling is one of the sports that let the individual shine. Large or small, anyone can win if he is good enough.

This year the squad finished with a record of 2 wins and 11 losses. The team was composed almost entirely of underclassmen. Next year will present practically the same squad.

Two boys earned outstanding records this year. Juniors Bob Sneary and Chuck Phillips had 17—2 and 14—3 records, respectively. In the Calumet Conference meet Bob Sneary took first place honors in the 112 pound class. Dave Uhron captured fourth place in his weight class. At the sectional at East Chicago Washington High School, four boys placed second: Bob Sneary, Chuck Phillips, Dave Uhron, and Herb Marsh.

The junior varsity wrestlers, when not challenging the varsity boys for their positions, showed some promise in their few meets. They beat Bishop Noll Institute by a substantial margin, and lost to East Chicago Washington's varsity squad by a few points.

Highland's young track squad began pre-season drills with hopes for an improved season over last year. Head coach Donn Kaupke, aided by Mr. Ken Sypult, offered helpful hints of improvement to the boys. Though young, the cindermen boasted many returning lettermen.

Dominated primarily by juniors, the Trojans improved steadily through the season. Bruce Larabee, Pat Huetton, and Dan Boganwright controlled the hurdles. Veteran Chuck Wagner earned victories in the broad jump, high jump, and the dashes. Harry Withrow posted team points on the shot put.

Greg Roderick, holding the school record for the mile run, continued to work hard toward victory in that event. Lone senior, Mike Planert, along with Chuck Whitaker ran the half-mile. John Gaston, running the quarter-mile, and Bob Snearly, pole vaulting, were among the many key newcomers to Highland's track team. Relay teams continued to place the Trojans in running contention.

Sporting a well-balanced squad, Coach Merlin Clinkenbeard commences indoor practices in the gymnasium before moving out to the baseball diamond. Diligent work plus driving spirit will help the Trojans to a rewarding season.

Senior hurlers, Jim Hardesty, Mike Cook, and Carl Toper, will provide the vital game control from the pitcher's mound. Composing the outfield defense will be seniors Tom Sharp and Mike Cook and junior Rich Kalmes. With the exception of first base, which will be occupied by hard-hitting Carl Toper, infield positions will be battled through throughout the season as equally adept boys will be vying for these spots.

Coach Clinkenbeard is anxiously awaiting the outcome of rough games on the schedule. Having many underclassmen on the squad, he will also be able to look forward to future years.

A CATCHER'S JOB, controlling the pitcher and the team, is vitally important in baseball. Sophomore receiver Gary Manno learns the fine points of this delicate part.

Coaches Bob Mack and Daryl Williams, starting their second year as golf coaches, are looking forward to a successful season.

Last year the team had a record of 18 wins and 11 losses, and finished third in the Calumet Conference with 7 wins and 3 losses. The team fell out of a first place tie in their last meet loss.

The first four men this year are seniors Dee Dilts, Ted Primich, Herb Marsh, and junior Larry Landis, a National Jaycee finalist in 1963. There are two or three boys battling for the fifth spot.

Golf has become a more popular sport at Highland High in recent years. An increasing number of boys tries out each year, which makes competition for varsity positions very keen.

The B-team had a record of 4—0. All of the boys that played on the B-team are now juniors, so the prospects for the next two years, both B-team and varsity, are very good.

Lettermen Operated Concession Stand During Home Games

Sportsmanship, scholarship, clean living, clean speech—these are the goals of the Lettermen's Club. Under these aims, varsity letter winners have been organized into a functioning body, benefiting both the school and the community.

The lettermen presented each member of the coaching staff with a dark blue blazer for wear at all school athletic events. A 16mm movie projector was donated to the athletic department by the athletic club; it has received extensive use in filming football games. Twelve pennants, one for each team in the Calumet Conference, were presented to the school and put on display on the south gym wall. Earlier, Lettermen hung their goals and aims as a club, sewn in gold letters on a blue banner, on the north wall.

To finance their service projects the Lettermen ran the concession stand at athletic events and held their annual work day in the spring.

G.A.A. Promoted Physical Fitness, Sportsmanship, and Fun

WHILE EARNING POINTS towards awards, members of G.A.A. enjoy square-dancing, one of many, weekly organized activities.

Sports have always been an exciting attraction for young people and girls are not exempt from this athletic-minded group. The Girls' Athletic Association is the core of this interest at Highland High School. These young ladies, who are members of this club, participate in softball, bowling, dancing, tumbling, basketball, and volleyball as organized activities for a period of six weeks each. Ten points are gained for each six weeks of perfect attendance consisting of one day every week. Unorganized activities performed at home bring in an extra five points and achievement tests result in an additional ten points.

The traditional Mother and Daughter Banquet took place at Teibel's. The main speaker was a former Mrs. America. The sale of club sweat-shirts raised funds for the club's activities. The annual G.A.A. formal, "A Midwinter's Dream," was held in December.

Cheerleaders Led Booster Block, Promoted School Spirit

VARSITY CHEERLEADERS SANDI Barney, Karen Abblett, Mel MacKenzie, and Pat Primich have the distinction of all being seniors. These four girls are responsible for arousing school spirit and do so by leading the boosters in cheers at football and basketball games.

Highland High's two squads of cheerleaders carry a contagious school spirit with them whether in or out of uniform. These eight girls continuously encourage good sportsmanship and always cheer the team, win or lose.

They have become an integral part of high school life, setting an example for others to follow. No game is complete without the energetic cheerleaders leading the Booster Block in fast-moving yells. Cheerleading is entirely extra-curricular; both the Varsity and the JV spend time every week perfecting their routines.

Cheerleaders urge the fans to back the team, but this year they added an extra incentive. Both squads sponsored a bake sale to obtain money for a fan bus to the Lebanon basketball game.

Each spring four girls in each division are chosen from among all those aspiring to become cheerleaders. A panel, consisting of graduating cheerleaders and Booster Club officers and sponsors, selects the girls.

LEADING THE CHEERS during junior varsity games are Betsy Ceaser, Margie Haburay, Linda Colini and Karen Eldredge. Instilling enthusiasm is the difficult but rewarding task of these girls. Skill as well as practice are necessary to be a good cheerleader.

Organizations Function Through Student Interest and Participation

We grow into better individuals through participation. The many and varied organizations at Highland High School provide outlets for our energies and opportunities for us to share with others. Organizations range in purpose from academic, interest, and career to honorics, service, and athletic. Each satisfies the needs of its members. All groups strive to better the individual through membership, but the organization is only as good as the individuals who strive to better the group.

Inter-club Council is composed of one representative from each organization. Here activities are co-ordinated and problems are straightened out. This central body suggests legislation to improve our system of clubs and activities.

Our organizations not only work for their own benefit, but also sponsor various activities, services, and entertainment open to the student body as a whole. Opportunity presents itself in our jobs and all we must do is participate.

JENNIFER SMITH SIGHTS a prospective customer coming down the hall and Doug Bateman begins his sales pitch. The Honor Society sold Trojan booster buttons at sectional time.

National Honor Society has served as a personal goal and achievement for many. Outstanding qualities of leadership, citizenship, service, and scholarship have outlined this organization's criteria for membership since its first year of existence. N.H.S. recognizes students for exceptional achievements in all phases of school life.

Existing mainly as a service organization, National Honor Society members helped in the March of Dimes collection during the fall months. Members served at the candidates' meeting in October and at a tea which took place at the Calumet National Bank of Munster.

Money-making projects included bake sales, a booth in the school-wide French Carnival, and the sale of booster buttons during sectionals.

One of the organization's main events each year is the Annual National Honor Society Banquet. This is the first club function the newly-appointed junior members attend. At this time new officers are announced as well.

Each year, hardworking juniors and seniors are awarded for their achievements in the scholastic world of high school by N.H.S. membership.

"Melody of Love" Set Mood For Key Club Sweetheart Dance

During the 1963-64 school year, the Highland High School Key Club continued its worthwhile services for the school and community. Through their attendance at regular club meetings, Kiwanis Club luncheons and the organization's state convention, members learned the principles and qualities of becoming better citizens and leaders.

Two annual projects were again the high points of the club's year. Welcoming the Yuletide season, the Key Club presented the school with a Christmas tree, which they set up and trimmed in the main hall. The tree was adorned with gold keys bearing the names of the students who brought canned goods to help in the club's annual drive. These goods were then distributed by members to the less-fortunate families of the community.

The second highlight of the year was the annual St. Valentines Day dance. As in past years, at this affair the Key Club Sweetheart was selected from six candidates chosen by the members.

ADDING THE CROWNING touches to a radiant queen, Key Club President Dee Diltz, offers congratulations and a tiara to newly chosen Key Club Sweetheart, Pat Primich.

COMPOSED OF REPRESENTATIVES from each class, the Student Council governs the entire student body. At bi-monthly meetings the Council discusses and acts on situations affecting students.

The Student Council spent a busy year striving to govern and represent the best interests of the student body of Highland High. To fulfill this goal the Council organized many new projects and activities. They replaced the one phone in the lobby with two new ones and initiated the measure that lengthened the break between fifth and sixth periods to ten minutes. Their main project, however, was the distribution of the Student Code of Behavior. This pamphlet, compiled by members of the Council, was distributed to each student at the start of the new semester. It outlined the basic rules of conduct and dress for the student at all school functions.

In the spring the Council sponsored its annual banquet where the new officers were announced.

Student Court Exchanged Visits with Hammond City Court

Last year it was felt that a student organization was needed to correct students' small offenses committed in school. To accomplish this the Student Court of Highland was initiated.

Working in co-operation with the administration, the Student Court has become an important part of the school. There are fifteen members of the Court. Included are two senior judges—one the chief justice, two junior judges, one sophomore judge, a bailiff, a court recorder, and several deputies whose job it is to see that sentences are carried out.

Court sessions were held on Friday mornings during activity period. Offenders were given court notices at the time of the offense and were summoned to appear in court. The notices were assigned by teachers, administrators, and hall monitors on duty. During court sessions offenders were given a chance to present a defense. If the verdict were guilty, sentence was pronounced. Typical offenses were leaving lockers set, eating in the halls, being in halls during class time without a pass, running in the halls or discourteous behavior. The punishments included cleaning desks, picking up paper in the halls, washing windows, or writing.

In only one year the Student Court quickly gained respect and prestige in the school.

Science Club Built Greenhouse Addition to Biology Room

To further the cause of science and to promote interest in the field are the goals of the 20 members of the Science Club. Anyone in grades ten through twelve who is truly interested in science and is taking a science course may apply for membership. One of the great achievements by the club was its acceptance into the Junior Academy of Science, in 1961.

A major project for the Science Club this year was to raise funds for the construction of a greenhouse on the biology room. To do this, they sponsored soc-hops and other fund raising events.

In working toward their goal as a club, the group visited various spots of scientific interest and sent club representatives to the meeting of the Junior Academy of Science.

Newly Innovated German Club Plans Fund-Raising Projects

Christmas caroling and dinner at German restaurant were the most important projects this year for the German Club. A new arrival on the scene, it is open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors, who are taking German. Officially known as Der Deutsche Verdin, their purpose is the study of the civilization, culture, and people of Germany. In the late fall they displayed items of handicraft in the showcase opposite the German room.

Although the club was formed only last fall and many of its long-range projects are still in the planning stages, it still had several events this year. The club tried to observe the German holidays, especially Christmas. Songfests with the songs sung in German, and the playing of traditional German games were also a part of the club's activities.

Later, after more experience is gained in the language, the club hoped to put on German plays. With these and other activities the club planned to provide entertainment for the members.

DECORATING THE SHOWCASE with traditional German novelties and souvenirs, Kathy Pudell awaits the approval of fellow German club members, Al Bohanon and Kathy Markward. Mrs. Helen Beretz, sponsor, brought the items from Germany last summer.

"I'LL TAKE THESE," says Mrs. Ada Wagner as Mrs. Edward Gaston decides on what she'll purchase. Selling the baked goods are French Club members Mike Planeri, Ellen Wright, Mrs. Florabel Burnett, sponsor, Shirley Puckett and Linda Stamper.

Le Cercle Français is the official title for the French Club. Formed just last year, its '63-'64 activities brought many "firsts." In September, the club began its first float, "Tippicanoe and Dyer Too," which brought the French Club a third place trophy in the homecoming parade.

For Christmas, the club members learned French songs and went Christmas caroling. Afterwards, the sponsor, Mrs. Florabel Burnett, served refreshments at her home.

A bake sale was the year's first money-making activity. It was followed by a soc-hop in January. This year the club concentrated less on the idea of financing a French exchange student. Club earnings were used for activities that brought both enjoyment and French culture to the students. Slides were shown at meetings and a subscription was bought to Paris Match. Later in the year, a special committee was chosen to find events suitable to the purpose of the club.

Mardi Gras, a March inter-club carnival organized by French Club, was the highpoint of its activities this year. Plans were begun early in December for this event, which goes back to the French custom of a celebration before Lent.

Spanish Club Held Card Party to Support Exchange Program

Two students representing the Highland High Spanish Club traveled to South America last year. Carol Spiegel and Herb Marsh, seniors, took part in the foreign exchange program. This annual project is the most important function of the Spanish Club.

These student representatives are financed each year by donations from civic organizations. The purpose of foreign exchange is to put the Spanish learned in the classroom into practical use. Participating in a similar program in their own countries, foreign exchange students from South America were also received at Highland High. This year Highland High welcomed three South American students. Their visits to America lasted three months each.

After vacation on January 6th of the new year, the Spanish Club gave a Christmas party which was opened to club members only.

This year, as in the past, the main money-making project was the Spanish Club card party. Another of their fund-raising projects was a bake sale. Rounding out the 1963-64 activities members organized a beach party in the late spring.

LEARNING THE HISTORY and the culture of Spanish speaking nations is a main aim of Spanish club members. Jack Leach, Ron Hernandez, Carol Kozlowski, and Linda Colina, members of the club, examine souvenirs from Spanish countries.

A wholesome personality, physical vitality, mental vigor, moral discrimination, helpfulness, knowledge and leadership are the requirements of a good teacher described in the F.T.A. pledge taken by members of the club.

The Future Teachers of America Club was formed to explore various areas of teaching and provide experiences which will enable students to either accept or reject teaching as a career. Thirty members practiced exploratory teaching or acted as teacher's aids during this past school year.

A schedule of coordinated activities and projects was in store for all eighty-five members of F.T.A. On November 9 the F.T.A. Round-Up was held in Gary. A fund raising soc-hop and a breakfast for the teachers were held. According to the custom of the past three years, the F.T.A. gave $100 scholarships to two prospective teachers.

TRADITIONAL CANDLELIGHTING CEREMONIES are part of the F.T.A. initiation. Jeff Minter takes part in the induction of new members as Myra Middleton and Debbie Furnas look on. New members also take a pledge as part of their initiation.

Anyone interested in pursuing a career in business and its related fields is welcome to join the Future Business Leaders of America. The only major qualification necessary is that the student be enrolled in one of the many commercial courses offered at Highland High.

F.B.L.A.'s chief aims are to acquaint its members with the modern world of business and to instill in them qualities of leadership, responsibility, and cooperation. The club sponsors many money-making projects and charity drives during the year. Profits from two soc-hops and a springtime lollipop sale are used to finance attendance at the state convention at Ball State and at the national F.B.L.A. convention.

A $100 scholarship is presented each year to a deserving business student to help finance his education at the school of his choice. Occasionally, F.B.L.A. members visit a business college. The Christmas season sees the annual F.B.L.A. Toy Drive for the Blind. Everyone in the school is invited to donate toys to help make the blind children's Christmas a little brighter.

SHARING CHRISTMAS SPIRIT by wrapping gifts for blind children are Pam Tauber, Luana Kinsella, and Romalda Motush. Sponsored annually by the F.B.L.A., this toy drive is their way of keeping with the Christmas mood.

M.C.C. Conference Stimulated Interest and Participation

Medical Career Club focuses its attention on those students interested in any of the medical fields. It proposes to stimulate sincere enthusiasm in medicine and to afford students the chance to estimate their potential capabilities and opportunities in a medical career.

Although the majority of club members are aspiring to the nursing profession, an annual Medical Career Conference is sponsored during which several areas of medicine are discussed by representatives of their particular fields. Membership in M.C.C. is not mandatory to attend the conference—interest is the only pre-requisite.

Several field trips are taken each year to augment the members' knowledge of fields of medicine and to gear their thoughts of future work and education. Since its origin in the latter half of the 1962-63 school year, members attended tours of hospitals, including Beatty Memorial and Saint Margaret Hospitals. In addition to the income from dues, the M.C.C.'s treasury was increased by the profit from a soc-hop during the first semester of the year.

Sign Painters Designed Displays for Teachers Convention

Being a member of the Highland High School Sign Painters Club gives students a chance to develop and display their creativity and ingenuity. These students also may enjoy the satisfactory feeling of helping their school and fellow classmates.

Sign Painters are generally employed throughout the year with the promotion of various club functions and projects. Their signs adorn the halls, telling students of coming games, soc-hops, bake sales, and other club projects.

Many service projects are also performed by these young artists. The colorful and often witty victory hoops help the Highland Trojans make their entrance in style.

Two other services were afforded to Highland High this year by the Sign Painters Club. During National Education Week, colorful, artistic displays greeted visiting elementary teachers at the teachers convention and again greeted parents at the school open house. Various display cases are also done voluntarily by members throughout the year.

Since the money they earned for signs does little more than pay for their materials, the Sign Painters also sponsored a soc-hop this year.

ARRANGING ARTISTIC DISPLAYS and creating original posters for organizations keep members of Sign Painters Club busy. Arranging a bulletin board for their own club are sign painters Janet Caird, Greg Ladd, and Luana Kinsella.

Promoting and encouraging interest in dramatics is the initial aim of the Drama Club. Interest in the theater arts and speech is also cultivated among members. An innovation sponsored by the club this year was a night club-type dance. Successful creation of an "Autumn in New York" atmosphere was accomplished by the enthusiastic club members. An excursion into Chicago to see a play proved to be an educational as well as entertaining trip for interested members.

The production of the annual full-length play was the most anticipated project of the year. As tryouts approached aspiring actors and actresses prepared to read for parts, as other members took it upon themselves to construct scenery, conjure up costumes and learn the art of make-up. Their combining of talent and effort met with appreciation.

HIDDEN UNOBTUSIVELY AMONG the branches, Drama Club members Sue Carlson, Carole Dorsch, Vicki Rowe, and Ed Kozak start work on decorations for "Autumn in New York." Drab oaks soon became a glittering part of a swank New York night spot.

AFFILIATED WITH Y.W.C.A. Y-Teens is an organization for young girls. The main objective of the club is to develop its members into well-balanced citizens. Shown are Y-Teens Ellen Wright, Evelyn Brant, Janet Cawood, and Pam Brown.

Y-Teens is a daughter organization of the Young Women's Christian Association, and like Y.W.C.A., its main objective is to help young girls in the development of their character and the community in which they live.

Usually one of their first services of the year is the sponsoring of a teachers' tea. Here, over cupcakes and coffee, old and new teachers alike can get acquainted and become officially welcomed to Highland High and a new school year.

Through their affiliation with a state and nation-wide organization, Y-Teens members were able to take part in two important functions attended by other Y-Teens and Y.W.C.A. groups of the area. Some girls attended the Y-conference slumber party, while others represented Highland High in the spring at the Valentines Day Y-Sweet-heart Dance.

To help them in attaining their goal as a club, Y-Teens were host to various guest speakers at their meetings. Probably one of the most memorable was a visit from the director of an area beauty and charm school, who gave the girls pointers on the latest in the fields of charm and fashion. Other events were a candle-light initiation for new members and the sponsoring of a soc-hop.

H.H.S. Band Provided Entertainment, School Spirit As They

Under the leadership of Mr. Edwin Kibiger, band director, the Highland High School band enjoyed another year of varied activities. The band did much to promote school spirit, performing during the half-time of the home football games and playing tunes at the home basketball games. The band, attired in their bright blue and gold uniforms, marched in the Homecoming and Christmas parades as well.

Last fall the Highland band, along with three other local bands, performed in the Valparaiso University Band Day. They also presented their annual Christmas and spring concerts.

Personal pride and satisfaction were the results of participation in the band, as the group enjoyed another year of success.

PRACTICING THEIR PART in the marching band's half-time entertainment, majorettes, Paula Nevers and Rebecca Scott, are kept busy preparing individual routines as well as their work with the band in parades and home game programs.

Variety was provided by the appearance of the new student publication called CEN TAUR. This literary magazine is filled with a combination of poetry, humor, essays, and short stories. CEN TAUR is a human interest magazine which is a member of four press associations, two of which are national. A constant line of firsts for Highland High is now headed by this, the most recent publication.

This magazine joins ranks with the newspaper and yearbook, the TROJANAL and SHIELD. Rounding out the journalism program at Highland, its purpose is to give the students the opportunity to express themselves in one of four subject areas.

The CEN TAUR was made possible by the contributions of the student body. To stimulate entries and to give just rewards for outstanding work, a contest was sponsored by the TROJANAL, awarding cash prizes for first, second and third place entries in each of the four divisions. Honorable mentions were also chosen.

With four active publication divisions, the journalism department at Highland is constantly striving in the direction of even bigger and better publications.

AS PLANS DEVELOP for the CEN TAUR, the bulk of the responsibility falls on these major position holders: Carole Dorsch, Associate Editor; Louise Casada, Editor-in-Chief; Greg Ladd, Layout and Art Editor; and Daryl McDonald, Distribution Manager.

MAJOR SHIELD EDITORS, Pam Heim, Copy Editor; Sandy Barney, Editor-in-Chief; Judy Blaskovich and Charles Hachler, Co-Layout and Art Editors; Doug Bateman, Head Photographer; and Jennifer Smith, Photography Editor, perform some of the endless, planning necessary to produce a top-rated yearbook.

The 1963 SHIELD again proved outstanding by receiving an All American rating by the National Scholastic Press Association at the University of Minnesota and an "A+" from the National Yearbook Association at Memphis, Tennessee. But this was not the staff's only reward.

Any yearbook staff has the pride and satisfaction of seeing its own creativity in print. The enjoyment of seeing one's own copy block or caption in a yearbook is reward in itself.

SHIELD major and minor editors took their work seriously. During the summer of 1963, they attended institutes at various colleges in order to get new ideas and present their own for analysis.

The job of the SHIELD, recording a school year with its people, activities, and fads, is always done in a unique, pleasure-giving way.

Terry Jacobi, as Organization Editor, starts work in gathering information to be used by the copy staff in writing club copy. Sports Editor, Bill Vander Haar, checks Highland High's sports story of the year for an accurate record to appear in the yearbook.

FORMING THE BUSINESS side of the SHIELD, Karen Abblett, Sales Manager; Martha Boyd, Business Manager; Maureen Rotz, Advertising Manager; and Kathy Visiovatti, Typing Editor see to their individual responsibilities in an effort to reach their common goal—that of forming a sound financial and mechanical backing for the 1964 SHIELD. As they often find, such a goal can become quite a task.

Hours of hard work and diligence were exhibited by staff members as Highland High's own newspaper, the TROJANAL, completed its fifth year of publications. Major and minor editors gave up much of their free time to prepare an excellent newspaper for the students.

The TROJANAL was available to students and teachers on Friday morning during activity period. This year, the cost for the newspaper was included in the book fee, so that everyone would be assured one.

The regular TROJANAL was four pages but several special issues were presented. These occurred at Christmas, sectionals, Football-o-Rama, and graduation.

This year, the position of Editor-in-Chief was shared by two students. The change of editors occurred at the change of the semester. Many journalism and non-journalism students volunteered to serve on the various staffs. Also, beginning journalism students were required to join the staffs of one of the publications.

Enthusiasm and the desire to produce an informative, interesting, and amusing paper, have made the TROJANAL the product it is today.

Acquiring a new status in Highland High's publications department, the News Bureau was given its own class period for the first time this year. Major position holders on the News Bureau met during a regular class period to prepare and to send out pictures and news releases.

Playing a major role in the advancement of better public relations, the Bureau does much to inform parents, alumni, and other interested people. By sending pictures and stories to four local newspapers, the News Bureau enables the public to keep up with the latest developments at Highland High School. These publicity pictures and news stories acquaint the public with the latest newsworthy events at Highland High and commendable students accomplishments.

Assigning stories, editing copy, compiling, and mailing information and pictures are all a part of the process of informing the interested public. With each successive year the News Bureau, now in its third year, becomes a more important and influential facet of Highland High's publications department.

PREPARING NEWS RELEASES and pictures are News Bureau Photography Editor, Pat Primich; News Editor, Cindy Kubacki; Feature Editor, MaryLee Arndt; and General Manager, Nancy Worcester.

Founded in the fall of 1959 the Quill and Scroll has been an active honorary organization under the guidance of Highland High's journalism instructor and publications advisor.

Quill and Scroll is an international honor society for high school journalists who are outstanding in their field. The purpose of Quill and Scroll is to recognize outstanding juniors and seniors who have done superior work in some major phase of student publications—TROJANAL, SHIELD, CENTAUR, or News Bureau. At present there are thirty-two members in the club.

According to the constitution, members of Quill and Scroll are chosen from the students in the high school who, at the time of their selection meet certain qualifications. First, they must be at least a junior in high school; they must be in the upper one third of their class. They must have done superior work in some major phase of journalism of school publications work, such as editing, business management, advertising, or production. They must be recommended by the supervisor and they must be approved by the Executive Secretary of the Society.

The club's activities included the annual Quill and Scroll Banquet as well as a bake sale.

QUILL AND SCROLL initiation ceremonies included the distribution of pins and membership cards to all new members. Kathy Ryerse looks on as Jennifer Smith presents Carole Dorsch with her pin. After the ceremonies refreshments were served.

Personalities

Mix and Match, Adding Variety to Daily Routine

Attitudes, appearance, abilities, and ambitions constitute a personality. Our high school career has a significant influence on the development of individual personalities. It is during these formative years that we discover our present and potential selves.

Inevitable youthful spirit is not uncommon to Highland High students. A desire to do something and to be something creates a need for goals. We search for goals which can only be determined by our distinctive personalities.

Personality is everything we are—from our in-born intelligence to our acquired idiosyncrasies. It may be appealing to some, unattractive to others; it's only human to like and dislike. Conflict and variety in opinions, tastes and habits prevent the world from becoming boring. While decorating for the big dance, cheering the team, or just conversing in the halls between classes, we cannot help but see the interesting personalities which influence our lives.

Wouldn't it be

Administrators Help Students with Counseling, Scheduling

MR. SUMNER PAUSES a moment before delving into the volumes of work which await him as assistant to the Superintendent.

Mr. Clyde Sumner, as assistant to the superintendent, lends a hand to much of the work that forms a continual stream into the main office each day. Though at one time a principal and Recreation Board member, this is Mr. Sumner's first year that he has directly worked with Highland High.

Mr. Paul Kienzynski by full title is Director of Attendance and Welfare for the School Town of Highland. Understandably enough, students greet him with a simple "Hi! Mr. K." Working mostly out of the high school and junior high, Mr. Kienzynski counsels students for many of the Highland schools.

Acting as a coach in previous years, this is actually Mr. Day's first year that he has been able to devote himself almost completely to his task as Assistant Principal here at Highland High. With his title come the many problems and satisfactions that swamp the desks of the main office.

ANOTHER DAY BEGINS—Mr. Kienzynski performs the usually morning ritual of checking the incoming mail.

And Personal Problems Daily

DIRECTING THE ADMINISTRATION of the public schools of Highland is the responsibility of Mr. Lon P. Monbeck. The superintendent is kept busy as he strives to better our educational program.

READING THE BULLETINS for the day over the intercom is one of many duties performed by Mr. Allen J. Warren, Principal.

SCHOOL BOARD MEMBERS, Mr. Charles H. Whitaker, Dr. John C. Winters, and Dr. Leonard Russum inspect the newly installed PA system which helps maintain efficiency in school operation.

Heading the administration of Highland public schools is Mr. Lon P. Monbeck. As superintendent of schools, Mr. Monbeck has been a key figure in the development and advancement of the educational program in Highland.

Through the efforts of devoted school board members, plans have been formulated for a new elementary school. The board, along with Mr. Monbeck is responsible for the selection of qualified teachers. Maintaining a balanced budget for the school system is another of their duties. Members of the school board are Dr. Leonard Russum, president; Dr. John Winters, secretary; and Mr. Charles Whitaker, treasurer. These men are responsible for the efficient organization and operation of the school town of Highland.

Serving as principal of a modern, growing high school, Mr. Allen J. Warren finds his day well-occupied. In his capacity as principal, Mr. Warren has the responsibility of directing all the activities of the faculty groups as well as student body.

Secretarial Work Greatly Facilitated by Modern Equipment

MRS. MYRTLE WATSON, Mrs. Laurene Hasselbring, and Mrs. Grace Reichers find office work greatly expedited by modern equipment.

SOPHOMORES, SENIORS, JUNIORS receive guidance from Mrs. Annabelle Shone, Mr. John Fruth, and Mr. James Garretson, respectively.

Operating a high school is much more difficult a job than many people realize. Just one of the series of programs involved includes the guidance counselors whose efforts are directed toward scheduling of students and keeping the absentee and tardy rates at an absolute minimum.

The registered nurse on duty at the school is responsible for administering various health tests. She is also prepared for any emergencies that may arise.

The efficiency of the office is partly based on the several secretaries whose duties range from reading the announcements to selling tickets for basketball games.

Another aspect of the school is school maintenance. The janitors expend much effort in keeping the school's appearance inherent. The school's clean outside appearance is matched by that of the interior.

FOOD! This is an unforgettable part of every phase of life. The high school is certainly no exception. The cooks join in the spirit of things by preparing holiday treats as well as regular well-balanced meals throughout the year. With hard work and long hours they serve the high school cheerfully and efficiently.

HANDLING THE CORRESPONDENCE and bookkeeping for Mr. Monbeck are his secretaries, Mrs. Martha Brown and Mrs. Eleanor Turpak.

Cleanliness and Healthfulness Are Main Aims of Personnel

AFTER SERVING LUNCHES to a crowd of ravenous teen-agers, the cooks take a break before preparing for the next day's stampede. Mrs. Pat Willison, Mrs. Anne Wymer, Mrs. Velma Browning, Mrs. Sherry Smith, Mrs. Donna Croker, and Mrs. Mary Garman compose the staff of cooks who serve well-balanced meals daily during three different lunch periods.

MRS. JOSEPH DECEUSTER ATTEMPTS to organize her files concerning several of the students. Serving as the school nurse, her job entails keeping health records of each student and giving various hearing and vision tests from time to time.

AFTER A BIG GAME, custodians, Alvin Tyree, Dean Barnes, Michael Murray, Stanley Seire, and Cecil Hargroves discuss the most effective way to stage the clean-up campaign. The janitors strive to keep the building neat inside as well as outside.

"REALLY ROCKIN' OUT" is the only way to describe Mr. and Mrs. Darl Williams.

UNOFFICIAL TASTE-TESTER Mr. Donn Kaupke samples the popcorn he's selling.

TAKING PART IN the teachers' bowling league, Mr. Ron Surdial works towards his 660 series.

BEATLES AND BASKETBALL do not seem quite the same to anyone but a senior. These things help make a year something special.

Senior Officers Led Class of 1964 Through Year's Activities

Williams, and Mr. Michael Keppler. Planning and leading the final high school activities of their class is the task which faced these officers.

September, October, November, December, June 1964—as the months slipped by, the senior class of Highland High made the most of their last year together. Class parties were held at the high school in November and in June. Rockin' out became the thing to do and class unity became the thing to strive for. Money-making projects were suggested to help raise money for the traditional gift to the school from the graduating class. A donkey basketball game was sponsored by the class as well as a basketball contest between the seniors and faculty.

Senior pictures were exchanged, announcements were ordered, class motto, flower, and colors were chosen; caps and gowns were rented, all which served to impress the reality of graduation.

College seemed to be on the minds of many of the seniors. Housing applications, admission applications, and scholarship applications had to be filled. Acceptances could be seen steadily increasing on the guidance office bulletin board. Many other seniors applied for future employment and prepared to meet their responsibilities as citizens and future leaders.

Outstanding Seniors Judged

Outstanding, according to the dictionary, means noticeable or conspicuous. If there is one thing most teenagers would rather not be, it's conspicuous. The majority prefers the peaceful obscurity of following the crowd. Still, here and there leaders do arise. These students excel in service to the school, character, scholastic average, leadership, and activities. Fifteen such students were chosen to be the Outstanding Seniors for 1964. All seniors in the top third of the class were eligible for this honor. They were judged in the five categories and voted on by the teachers. The final selection was made by the faculty committee.

The Outstanding Seniors have served Highland High in a wide variety of fields. They include Student Council, Key Club, Boys' and Girls' State, publications, Student Court, cheerleading, musical, and scholarly representatives. All of the Outstanding Seniors served in more than one capacity. They worked to be proud of Highland High and strived to make Highland proud of them.

REPRESENTING STUDENT COURT are Outstanding Seniors Bill VanderHaar, senior class judge, and Mike Dybel, chief justice.

KEY CLUB MEMBERS who ranked among the Outstanding Seniors in the Class of '64 are Bill McGaughey, Dee Dilts, Terry Jacobi and Doug Bate-man. These four boys actively participated in club projects throughout the year.

THREE OUTSTANDING SENIORS were familiar faces at the games. Cheerleaders Mel MacKenzie and Sandi Barney led cheers while Booster Club president Marilyn Gergely organized the block.

SENIOR GIRLS WERE honored by being nominated for queen roles. In February, Pat Eppach was crowned Roy Club Sweetheart. Her court consisted of Karen Althoff, Sandy Barney, Melrose, Ma-Kensie, Janet Gaston, and Bobbi Bran-

Class of 1965 Undertook a Variety of Fund-Raising Projects

Officially established as upperclassmen the juniors began to appreciate the privileges and accept the responsibilities that accompanied their new status. Juniors exhibited vivacious school spirit by enthusiastically supporting the athletic teams. The focal point of the junior year was the planning and production of the traditional prom. To finance the long-awaited prom the Class of '65 sponsored various money-making projects throughout the year.

Preceding a basketball game in January was a junior sponsored chili supper. A student-faculty game brightened the social side of student life while adding funds to the junior's treasury. Bake sales, car washes, and soc-hops were also included on the junior activity agenda for the year. Imagination, ingenuity, and industry characterized the junior class as they carried out these various fund-raising projects. Strenuous work, carefree fun, bitter disappointments, and sweet success constituted the treasured memory known as junior year. The Class of '65 met the challenge of a significant year.

Hard work and many disappointments contributed to the sophomore's successful homecoming float entitled "It's In The Bag." All the heartaches paid off when on homecoming night the second prize trophy was awarded to the Class of '66. This is the type of reward every class works for, symbolizing ingenuity, imagination and ambition. With a guiding hand from Mrs. Helena Karr and Mr. Bob Mack, a car wash for the boys and bake sale for the girls were successfully and profitably carried out. Many a water-soaked soph walked home from the car wash complaining of soggy Keds and dishpan hands.

Complying with tradition, the Class of '66 named Rick Spickard their Mr. Football of 1963. Putting forth a group effort, they organized the soccer and trophy presentation with the cloak and dagger secrecy necessary for such an event. Another such traditional money-making project the sophs were careful not to overlook was the sale of school sweatshirts.

Climaxing a full and successful year, the sophomores came to one of the highlights of their high school memories—the ordering of class rings.

ENJOYING THE HOSPITALITY of the Highland Future Teachers of America Chapter, teachers eat donuts and rolls and sip coffee at the annual FTA Teachers Breakfast during National Teacher Appreciation Week.

As graduating seniors stand erectly with the dignity of commencement, memories flood the minds and hearts of the participants. There had been the typical homecoming, football season, basketball and sectionals—but each had its own uniqueness and special meaning. The triumphant victors at Homecoming, the disappointed underdogs at sectionals—these students turned their diverse interests to other endeavors when athletic seasons had come to a close.

Second semester followed on the heels of sectionals, bringing with it tryouts for THE SKIN OF OUR TEETH and BRIGADOON and Highland's first Hootenanny. Then the Junior Class turned anxious attention toward producing the Prom. Highland High was also the site of the Lion's Club Pancake Breakfast and the annual Scholarship Banquet.

All too quickly came commencement as the seniors were launched to greater goals. This year, as all others, rushed to a swift climax, cramming events into young minds to hold and cherish as they venture into the world.

PANCAKES AND SAUSAGE are the specialties at the Lion's Club Pancake Breakfast. This service organization holds this breakfast annually as one of its money-making projects. They help finance the sending of delegates to Boys' and Girls' State Institute.

KEY CLUB MEMBERS, Bruce Larrabee and Jack Leach distribute programs for the annual Open House at Highland High. At this event parents were given the opportunity to meet with teachers and become better acquainted with the various aspects of education.

Major World Events Instilled

"John Fitzgerald Kennedy, President of the United States, is dead." Shock and disbelief registered on the faces of students and faculty alike. Pupils of all faiths mourned the death of still another world leader—Pope John XXIII.

The civil rights problem racked the United States in the form of sit-ins, murders and marches. August of 1963 set the scene for a historical march on the capital.

With growing trouble in Cyprus, Africa, Viet Nam and Panama, the inevitable battle lines of right and wrong sprang up all over the world.

This was a year when, faced with world problems, students seemed to grow up a little and realize the responsibilities they would soon be accepting. This was a year that brought us all one step closer to adulthood.

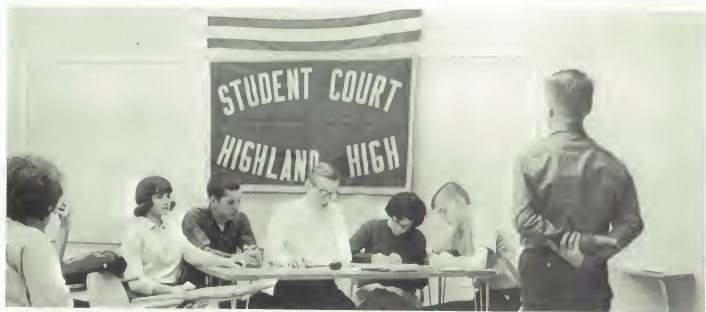

NOVEMBER 22, 1963, the symbolic stars and stripes were lowered to half mast as a mute tribute to the fallen President.

A RESPECTFUL SILENCE falls over the gymnasium as all attention focuses on the flag during the National Anthem.

TIKI BEAUTY SALON

Does your flip flop? Or maybe your beehive takes a dive? If these or any other problems seem to be bothering you, it is time for you to pay a visit to Tiki Beauty Salon. Without an appointment, you can drop in at 2824 173rd Street, Hammond, Indiana, and always get expert service. If it is time for another permanent or haircut, then it is time to dial WA3-4676. Or perhaps it is the day before that very special dance and you want to look your very best. A step to Tiki is a step in the right direction. Maybe you are beginning to get tired of your same dull hair color. Ever think of dyeing it? Tiki will do a real professional job. So, if hair is a mess, don't distress, call Tiki.

KNOWING THAT TIKI Beauty Salon is the right place to go for professional hair styling, Dean LaMantia begins to have doubts when Larry Keoun, Tom Tweedale, and Jim Rex start in on his hair. It seems that these "beauticians" don't know much about beauty.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The Basin Street blue cover with its bands of Mediterranean and Pastel blue, textured with a sand grain, was processed by the S.K. Smith Company, Chicago, Illinois. The knowledge and experience of Mr. Jack Bundy, our representative from S.K. Smith made the choice of material and processes easier for we, the inexperienced.

The design of the 1964 SHIELD was conceived and executed entirely through talent and time of students of Highland Senior High School. The acetate processed artwork on the division pages as well as sketches throughout the book were done by Judy Blaskovich with the aid of Mr. Ralph VanDyke of American Yearbook Company. The ad section, along with many other layouts, were designed by Charles Hachler. The rest of the layouts were made by the SHIELD Layout and Art Co-editors and staff.

The photographs were taken both professionally and by Highland Senior High student photographers. Wallinger Studios of Chicago, Illinois, took all the Senior Class portraits as well as many group photographs and candids. All Underclass portraits are the product of Interstate Studios and were taken by their representative, Mr. Bob Kubik. Many of the prom pictures were taken professionally by Hi-Fi Photo, Hammond, Indiana. A faculty candid, found on page 90,

The 1964 SHIELD was printed by Western Printing and Lithographing Company, a division of American Yearbook Company, Hannibal Missouri. Working closely with the SHIELD staff was our publications consultant from American Yearbook, Mrs. Juanita Cunningham. The book is printed on one hundred pound enamel paper, processed to a smooth, glossy finish. Roman and italic Baskerville type was used to provide variation in appearance throughout the book. Different point sizes were used, also, for the same reason. A point is a measurement of type height equalling 1/72 of an inch. All heads in the Opening Section (the first 32 pages) are 24 point Baskerville italic. All other heads are 24 point Baskerville Roman. The body copy is 12 point; the "idents" and "caps" are both 8 point type, however, the captions are set in italics.

IT'S NOT THE END

In planning a yearbook the staff tries to visualize the things you will want to remember thirty years from now. This is why we claim that the last page of this book is not "The End"—because we feel that the book will always be look-through again. The 1964 SHIELD is not the editor's book or the staff's. It belongs to you. For the staff it is not the end because we'll go on forever remembering all that it took to produce this book. Color on the division pages may not mean much to you but to us the color represents blood, sweat, tears and now the pride we share.

I would like to thank all of those who have given me the opportunity to be the editor of your 1964 book. Without the tremendous co-operation of a great many people this '64 SHIELD would not have been possible.

Sandi Barney
Editor-in-Chief

SMILING WITH APPROVAL and satisfaction Sandi Barney finishes the layout for the last page in the 1964 SHIELD, the climax to a long and busy year.

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of older people in the community. The Department of Health (1999) has published a strategy for older people, which sets out the government's commitment to improve the lives of older people. The strategy is based on the principle that older people should be able to live independently, safely and comfortably in their own homes, and to participate fully in the community. The strategy also sets out the government's commitment to improve the health and social care services available to older people, and to ensure that older people are able to access the services they need.
